We have intelligence from all portions of the State that many of the best and strongest men in the Republican party are fighting the proposed negro suffrage proposition. We will give a few instances proposition. We will give a few instances to show the drift of public sentiment upon this question. The Ohio county Record has the following item:

"Colonel J. H. Burkam, of Lawrence-burg, is out strongly against negro suffrage. Colonel Burkam is a Republican, and wields a strong influence in his township. He is independent and decided in his political views, and advocates what he thinks is right, without regard to party."

The Radical party can not afford, unless at the sacrifice of its supremacy, to lose many such men as Colonel BURKAM. We notice by the Evansville Journal that JOHN J. CHANDLER, Esq., of that city, a life long and very influential citizen and opponent of the Democratic party, comes out squarely against the amendment. He is outspoken upon the issue, and regards it paramount to all the other differences between the two parties. In response to an invitation to be candidate for Senator to fill the vacancy occasioned by the resignation of Dr. Morgan, he thus defines his position upon the issue in controversy:

"I am opposed to this Fifteenth Amendment for many reasons, the chief of which is that it will inflict upon the country negro suffrage, and its concomi-tant curse, a mongrel government of whites and blacks; the one being the ne-cessary sequence of the other. After all that has been said on the subject, suf-cessary sequence of the other. After all that has been said on the subject, suffrage in this country is the right only of those who possess it. We may bestow it upon others as a boon, but they can net claim it as a right. Whether we should bestow it or not depends upon whether it is our interest soft bestow it or not. It is a mere question of opposing forces. I can not see the wisdom of calling in the confessedly inferior races of the earth to assist the Anglo-Saxon in solving the yet undecided problem of man's capacity for self-government.

But the question of to-day is not the mere question of the right or wrong, the policy or impolicy of negro suffrage. It is a question of the fulfillment or falsification of pledges. It is a question of the fulfillment or falsification of pledges. It is a question of the fulfillment or falsification on or grave or vital question was ever presented to freemen. You say trally: The Republican party of Indiana stands squarely pledged, upon this issue. The present Legislature was elected upon the solemn declaration of the party, everywhere repeated, that the question of megro suffrage was one to be decided for themselves by the people of the several loyal States. I do not hesitate to say that the ratification, under such circumstances, of this miscalled Amendment of the carried of the naval station at Mound City, illinois. Commander James T. Felter has been relieved from that station, and placed in waiting orders.

themselves by the people of the several loyal States. I do not hesitate to say that the ratification, under such circumstances, of this miscalled Amendment of the National Constitution, would be such an act of fraud and perfidy, as no party in a free country ever yet survived or everought to survive.

You notify me that my consent to become a candidate must be with the distinct understanding that, if elected, I will do all in my power to defeat the ratification of said amendment until the same is appreved by a majority of the people of the State. I cheerfully and unswervedly accept the terms. I pledge myself, if elected, to use my utmost exertions to persuade my Republican friends not to do this great wrong, and, if all other means fail, I further pledge myself to resign my seat, if by so doing, I can alone defeat this treacherous and wicked act. Upon this point I differ with some of my friends. It is not the case, as they seem to suppose, of a minority resisting a majority. But it is the represome of my rienus. It is not the case, as they seem to suppose, of a minority resisting a majority. But it is the representatives of the majority of the people preventing the Representatives of the minority from defrauding them of the right to decide for themselves whether they will submit to this great innovation in the fundamental law of the land. sisting a majority. But it is the representatives of the majority of the people preventing the Representatives of the majority from defrauding them of the right to decide for them selves whether they will submit to this great innovation in the fundamental law of the land. I believe it republicans are sent to the Legislature, pledged as you demand, in place of the Democrats who have resigned, a sufficient number of other Republican members will be encouraged to stand true to the pledges to the party by insisting upon submitting the question to the people.

Navnt Inteffigence.

A dispatch received from Rear Admiral Redford, dated Lisbon, March 3, and nounces his arrival at that station on the Franklin on the 28th ultimo, after a passes of seventeen days from Ne York. The Franklin encountered a heavy Southern listone, a republican members who have resigned, a sufficient number of other Republican members will be encouraged to stand true to the pledges to the party by insisting upon submitting the question to the people.

"If I should find myself mistaken, I could even then do as well as my Demo-eratic friends; I could resign and come home. And this I again most unequivo-cally declare I would do, if it was the only means left me of defeating so great an iniquity."

inst., and published in the Evansville Journal of the following day. On the 18th inst. Mr. CHANDLER reconsiders his scceptance of the candidacy for Senator, withdraws from the contest and anfirst vote with the Democratic party. In his letter addressed to F. M. THAYER, who is one of the proprietors of the Journal, and others, he says in that paper of Saturday last:

of Saturday last:

"I withdraw in fevor of, and shall cast
my vote for, the Democratic candidates for Senstor and Representatives, "with the distinct indensanding," to use your language again, "that if elected they will do all in their power to defeat the ratification of said amendment until the same is approved by a majority of the people of the State," I shall do so with an earnest approved by a majority of the people of the State." I shall do so with an earnest hope that their labors in this behalf will be blessed, and that the result will be to bring this question before the people in the legislative canvass of 1870, when (that being, probably, one or two years before the Democrats will be ready to adopt it as a party measure) I predict it will be defeated by a majority of 50,000 votes. I may then be a candidate again, (there is no telling what a man may not do when he once begins to run for office) but whether I am or not, I hope to be able to take part in the discussion of the subject, and to prove to the people that negro suffrage is in principle, nature and essence, a Democratic and not a Republican measure."

"The Republican pary, like the old Whig party (of which it was merely the administrator de bosis son), has always depended, and, in the nature of things must always depend, for its success upon the intelligence, patriotism, and virtue of the people. To be a Republican, it is requisite that sman reverence God honor the laws, and love his country and his kind. Therefore, Republicanism should seek to elevate not degrade, the suffrage. On the other hand, Democracy, ever since I knew it (I have been fighting it, man and boy, right straight along, just one-third of a century), has been as the proposition to suspend the law for form years, or during the administration of President Grant, was discussed with much animation. Several Senators departed they would not be bossed by ever since I knew it (I have been fighting it, man and boy, right straight along, just one-third of a century), has been a standing appeal to all that was low and vile and degraded in human nature. To extend the area of ignorance and vice is just to that extent to increase the Democratic party. Therefore (g. e. d.), negro suffrage is naturally, intrinsically, essentially, a Democratic measure.

his course in opposing negro suffrage, just as he states them, for the benefit of throughout the State, who will not get it through their organs. It will be seen pathy with the Democracy upon all other political questions, and he votes with issue into the canvass of 1870. We do fluence Mr. CHANDLER in opposing the to show that he is not a Democrat or has any sympathy with that party.

The Radical leaders in Washington hope that the ratification of the amendment will take the suffrage question out of politics. Such will not be the case, even if it should be ratified by the present Legislatures of three-fourths of the States. The people are opposed to the amendment and the principles it involves. Men like Colonel Burkam and Mr. Chandles are popular this constructions. of politics. Such will not be the case, of the large mass of the quiet and thinking men of the Republican party, who wish to elevate and not degrade suffrage, and when such men oppose the amendment, it is evident that the great mass of the voters of Indiana will sustain the minority of the Legislature in any means they may depressed to the scattering of the capital punishment bill by providing that chloroform be administration of chloromity of the Legislature, last week, one member, a doctor, moved to amend the capital punishment bill by providing that chloroform be administration of chloromity of the Legislature, last week, one member, a doctor, moved to amend the capital punishment bill by providing that chloroform be administration of chloromity and the capital punishment bill by providing that chloroform be administration of chloromity and the capital punishment bill by providing that chloroform be administration of chloromity and the capital punishment bill by providing that chloroform be administration of chloromity and the capital punishment bill by providing that chloroform be administration of chloromity and the capital punishment bill by providing that chloroform be administration of chloromity and the capital punishment bill by providing that chloroform be administration of chloromity and the capital punishment bill by providing that chloroform be administration of chloromity and the capital punishment bill by providing that chloroform be administration of chloromity and the capital punishment bill by providing that chloroform be administration of chloromity and the capital punishment bill by providing that chloromity and the capital punishment bill by providing that chloromity and the capital punishment bill by providing that chloromity and the capital punishment bill by providing that chloromity and the capital punishment bill by providing that chloromity and the capital punishment bill by providing that chloromity and the capital punishment bill by providing that chloromity and the capital punishment bill by providing that chloromity and the capital punishment bill by providing t its ratification, until the people have had the opportunity to express their opinion

Considerable comment has been made apon the appointment of Mr. Foulds, citizen of Covington, as Postmaster of Cincinnati. To balance things, a citizen of Clermont county, Ohio, named Winans, who married a niece of General Grant's father in the Postoffice at Coving ton, has been appointed Postmaster a Newport, Kentucky. Thus Grant at las makes all things even.

The Tenure of Office Repeal Act.

The Republican Senators were in caucus about two hours this forenoon, and also some length of time this afternoon, on the Tenure of Office Act. Mr. Conkling's proposition to suspend the law for four years, or during the administration of President Grant, was discussed with much animation. Several Senators declared they would not be bossed by caucus, and retired from the room. Mr. Edmunds subsequently offered a resolution that the act ought not to be repealed. This also occasioned a lively debate. Finally a resolution was adopted that the bill and ending amendments in the Senate shall be recommitted to the Committee on the Judiciary, with a view to a modification of the law now in force.

It is not known what changes will be proposed. Many Senators suppose they will be such as will release the President from the present embarrassments. It would seem that the majority of the Senators are opposed to the total repeal of the law, and desire to retain its principles, but think the same provise may be added which will render it generally satisfactory. As the House has twice passed a bill for its repeal, the difference between the two branches of Congress may utimately be adjusted through a Committee of Conference.

THE ADJOURNMENT RESOLUTION. THE ADJOURNMENT RESOLUTION.

Mr. Lawrence offered a resolution to recall the concurrent resolution of adjournment which is now pending in the Senate, as there is certain business pending before the Reconstruction Committee-which ought to be acted on at the present session. The reconstruction of Mississippi, Texas and Virginia, and some legislation for Georgia, were necessary, and it would be impossible to perfect that legislation if Congress adjourned next Friday.

islation if Congress adjourned next Fri-day.

Mr. Butler gave another reason. Sup-pose the Senate should pass a resolution to suspend the Tenure of Office act, and then adjourn on Friday before the House could consider it, the whole question would fail to the ground. Between the two Houses, therefore, he desired that the House should have control of the matter in its own House. The Indian Appropriation bill had not been consid-ered by the Senate, and various other business required the attention of Con-gress. Mr. Farnsworth thought it far better

Mr. Farnsworth thought it far better for Congress to adjourn after the passage of the Indian Appropriation bill and the bill to repeal the Tenure of Office act, than to act upon the many bills already introduced at this session.

Mr. Dawes opposed the resolution. He believed that if the House were to enter upon a career of general legislation, it would be fraught with anything but good. There was nothing in the way of adjourning next Fridsy, if they were to address themselves to such legislation as was abing next Friday, if they were to address themselves to such legislation as was ship solutely necessary. He had supposed if anything were understood by the House, and by Congress, and by the country, it was that we should do very little more than organize this Congress at this time. We such unfortunate thing, in his appinion, could occur to this Administration, at the beginning, than to have this Congress legislating at the outstart.

Mr. Brooks believed it for the interest of the country, to have an early adjournment.

Mr. Schenck reported a resolution in reference to reciprocity, declaring that while the House does not admit any right in Executive or treaty-making power, to continue a treaty with any foreign Government with which import duties are mutually regulated, but it is, however, of the opinion, and recommends to the President that negotiations with the Government of Great Britain shall be renewed and passed, if possible, to a definite conclusion, regarding commercial interaction, and securing to American citigens the right claimed by them in the fisheries on the coast of British Provinces in America, the navigation of St. Lawrence river from its source to the sea. The Herald's Washington dispatch says the delay in the nomination of a Minister to England, vice Reverdy Johnson, is attributed to the fact that he has been carefully considering what policy would be best to pursue in regard to Alabama claims. In the back yard there are box stalls, and in one of these we found Flatbush Maid, a rich bay, growing in years, but still looking young and vigorous. Her eye is bright, her limbs sound, and today, perhaps, she is as fast as she was in the more glorious period of her life. She is leading a quiet existence, living on her laurels, and looking forward to maternal cares. Late last full she was bred to Abdallah Star, a fine young stallion, and it is believed that she is in foal to him. If so, from his loins and her womb there should come a trotter of wondrous speed and vitality. Flatbush Maid is now fiften years old, and until the latter part of February she was ruralized on the farm at Hartford,

PROCLAMATION.

STATE OF INDIANA, }
EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT. WHEREAS, The General Assembly of the Stat of Indians, at its late regular session, failed to pass the necessary appropriations to carry on the State government and to meet the current xpenses of the benevolent and other public institutions of the State, and by reason thereof, the public welfare imperatively requires that said General Assembly should be convened in ial session with the least practicable delay. efore, I, Conrad Baker, Governor of the State of Indiana, do issue this proclamation convening the General Assembly of the State in special session, and summoning the members thereof to meet in their respective Halls of legis-lation in the State House at Indianapolis, at two o'clock p. M. of Thursday, the 8th day of April,

A. D., 1869. In witness whereof, I have hereunto subcribed my name and caused the seal of the State to be hereunto affixed at Indianapolis this 22d day of March, A. D., 1869. CONRAD BAKER.

By the Governor. M. F. A. HOPPMAN, Secretary of State.

The Proposition to override State Conititutions by Congressional Enact-

The Journal takes the ground that a State constitution has nothing to do with declaring what shall constitute a Legislature for Federal purposes. Concede this right once, then all the reserved rights of the States will be abrogated, and not a barrier will be left to interpose against the dictation of Congress for what the Journal terms Federal purposes, and that will include legislation of every character, for it will be found convenient to embrace all under that general definition. When the General Government passed into the hands of the Republican party, the old Federal idea of a strong to have deceny and integrity ter, for it will be found convenient to emgovernment was at once asserted. and it has gained strength with rapid steps until the culminating point of con-centrating all power and authority in Congress has been finally reached, for such is the character and will be the effect of Senator Morron's joint resolution to over-ride, amend or alter State constitutions by the simple dictum of Congress.

The Journal says: "The adoption of the joint resolution would simply amount to a declaration in advance, that Congress would hold that a majority of the whole number of members constitutes a Legislature for all Federal purposes, while a failure to pass it would leave the question to be determined by Congress, when the question might arise whether the action of less than two-thirds of the Legislature should be recognized as valid. In our view of the case, the Constitution of Indiana has nothing to do with the question. So far as it limits, directs or regulates legislation touching the State it is supreme, but in discharging duties enjoined by the Constitution of the United States, the Legislature must look to that instrument alone for the measure of its authority."

The Cincinnati Gazette, which assumes "The adoption of the joint resolution

The Cincinnati Gazette, which assumes to be the organ for Radicalism in the Northwestern States, thinks the proposition of Senator Monron not only doubtful policy, but would jeopardize the dment if its ratification should depend upon the vote of Indiana, obtained under such circumstances. That paper in referring to the matter, remarks:

in referring to the matter, remarks:

"It does not appear that Senator Morton's joint resolution that a majority of any State Legislature, though it be not a quorum according to the State Constitution, shall be sufficient to ratify an amendment to the Constitution of the United States, would settle the question. It would be raised judicially, and it can not be assumed as certain that the Supreme Court would hold such a resolution of Congress legal; therefore, if the ratification of Indiana shall be needed to complete the amendment, it can not be made sure in this manner; and if it shall not be needed, it will be unnecessary to introduce this novel principle by which the Congress shall assume to say what constitutes a quorum in a State Legislature—a matter which the State Constitutions have hitherto regulated." tions have hitherto regulated.

As the Gazette says, State institutions have hitherto regulated what shall constitute a quorum in a State Legialature, and it is a right or power that the States have not granted or delegated to the General Government. Senator Morron's proposed joint resolution, if it is adopted will be a legislative act. And what power can the legislative branch of the General Government exercise or exert, Section of Article 1 of the United States Constitu-

Is the power claimed in Senator Mon-TON'S joint resolution granted in the Constitution of the United States? That there may be no mistage as to the character of his proposition, we give it in

"Joint Resolution prescribing the manner of proceeding by State Legislatures, upon amendments to the Constitution proposed to them for ratification.

"Be it resolved by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress Assembled, That on the sixth legislative day of a regular session, or of a legally called special session, of any State Legislature, each House of said Legislature, at the hour of twelve meridian, shall proceed to the consideration of any amendment of the Constitution of the United States that may have been submitted by the Congress of the United States for ratification, according to the provisions of the fifth article of the Constitution of the United States: Provided, That such amendment may not have been acted upon at any preceding session of said Legislature, And if, upthe Constitution of the United States: Provided, That such amendment may not have been acted upon at any preceding session of said Legislature, And if, upout he consideration of any such amendment, it shall receive the votes of a majority of the members elected to each house of said legislature, it shall be held to be duly ratified by such legislature. And if final action is not taken upon the first day, then the houses shall meet the next day at the same hour, and so continue to meet from day to day (Sundays excepted) until final action is taken upon such smendment. Nor shall the action of either house of said legislature upon such amendment be hindered or prevented by the resignation or withdrawal, or the refusal to qualify, of a minority of either or of both houses of said legislature.

"SEC, 2. And be it further resolved, That if such smendment or smendments shall be ratified, according to the provisions of the preceding section, the same shall be duly certified by the officers of each House, and shall be transmitted by the Governor of the States."

In article 5, prescribing the manner of as being liable to a specific and literal constitution.

The article 5, prescribing the manner of amending the Constitution, it is declared that amendments shall become a part of that instrument "when ratified by the Legislatures of three-fourths of the several States." The question then at issue, and the only question, is to determine what constitutes a Legislature. It would naturally be interred from the reading of the article in the Constitution providing for its amendment, that it recognized the complete authority as being liable to a specific and literal constituted by the struction.

There is, as yet, nothing which particularly supports the literal meaning of General Biair's charge, unless one be disposed to be an alarmist. Were he one of the latter character, he might attach a certain amount of significance to some prominent occurrences of Grant's short administration, Thus, he might argue somewhat as follows:

1. The appointment over Thomas of an unscrupulous instrument like Sheridan, is indicative of some bad project.

2. Sherman, the successor of Grant as commander of the army of the United States, is known to be an uncompromising monarchist.

3. Grant is filling a majority of the Legislatures of three-fourths of the sevommander of the army of the United the Constitution providing for its amendment, that it recognized the complete authority of the States themselves to regulate that matter, for certainly no authority is granted in the Constitution to Congress to determine what shall constitute the Legislature of a State for any purpose whatever. This preamble has been fully recognized by the Supreme Caurt of the United States, and by a judge who was in full sympathy with the Radical party, Judge McLara, in delivering an opinion of the Court in a case wherein the powers of the States and of the United States came under review, remarked;

"No power is derived by implication from the Federal Constitution, to defined and review of the States. But beyond and the states and determine the form the Federal Constitution, and the states and determine the powers of the States. This preamble has been fully recognized by the Supreme Caurt of the United States, and by a judge who was in full sympathy with the Radical party. Judge McLara, in delivering an opinion of the Court in a case wherein the powers of the States and of the United States came under review, remarked;

this, it in no degree effects the powers of the States. The powers which belong to a State are exercised independently. In its sphere of savereignty it stands on equality with the Federal Government, and is not subject to its control. It would be as dangerous as humiliating to the rights of a State to field that its legislative powers were exercised to any extent and under any circumstances, subject to the paramount action of Congress. Such a doctrine would lead to serious and dangerous conflicts of power."

We presume that even the Journal will

We presume that even the Journal will not deny that "the powers which belong to a State are exercised independently." The States have always exercised the ume that even the Journal will power of declaring the quorum or attendance upon a Legislature necessary for the transaction of lusiness. And it concedes that our constitution provides that two-thirds of the members shall be necessary to constitute a quorum for the trans-

Senstor Monrow himself admits that his proposed joint resolution, if adopted by Congress, will be a revolutionary act and justifiable upon the plea of party and justinable upon the pica of party emergency or necessity. Are the people ready to submit to an infamous neurpa-tion of power by Congress, "dangerous" Judge Story termed it, to perpetuate party rule?

What makes the scheme more villainous is that the Radical majority in Congress refuses to recognize or shide by the deliberately overrides the will of the peo-ple to accomplish partisan ends. The Radical leaders are straid to trust the question with the people, so they propose to crowd through the ratification of the amendment by Legislatures that were chosen upon a pledge against the adoption of any measure of that were chosen upon a pledge against the adoption of any measure of that character. Even the Journal itself, only a few weeks ago, called the attention of its party members of the Legislature to the plank in the Chicago platform upon the amendment issue as the law that should govern them. If it has made such rapid progress in favor of the concentration or centralization of power in the General Government, as to express enough to counsel its party to stand by the pledges it made in its National and State platforms of last year and upon which it won its State and general yictories. But we are glad the issue of State power, authority or rights is clearly made in the proposed joint resolution of Senator Morrow and its full endorse-ment by the Journal, for it will bring the question directly before the peoplethe same question that was decided in the contest between the parties represented by JEFFERSON on one side, and Hamilton on the other-whether we shall have the strong Government contended for by the old Federal party, and for which the Radical party is now contending, or the Constitution, Union and institutions that were advocated by the old Democratic party, of which JEFFERSON was the leader and which were adopted by the people. The issue now is over the same ideas and principles that were in controversy upon the formation of the Constitution, and which were decided by the people in adopting the principle of self-government as the only secure foundation for free government and popular

General Blair charged that Gen. Grant, if elected, would turn the Presidential chair into a throne. Nobody believed this assertion. From the Round Table. GENERAL AGENCY How He Lives and What He Is.

He is a sort of asteroid in the social system. He and his kind move in widely elliptic crbits of large inclination, cutting society at certain pedal points like those hundred and odd vagrant lumps of cosmic matter that if put together would hardly make up the mass of a respectable planet. Perhaps, equally like them, he may serve to demonstrate some yet-to-be discovered Eodean law ruling the little universe of which he forms so numerous yet so trivial a part. Perhaps he may have a use, as all things have; but then the designs of heaven are inscrutable and not to be found out by searching. The girl can hardly be looked upon as a mere makeweight, like a printer's leads that serve to space out the leading article more prominently, that high distinction being reserved for the society boy and unhesitatingly accepted by him. The society makeweight is not always such by virtue of brains, wealth, or family, a weak and inane gentility of dress and manner being about all that is wanted to separate him from the herd that ties huddled together one grade lower. He is most frequently professional and of professional ancestry. TENTA SOLINUM. DR. W. M. WHOOD. Sir. In answer to your inquiry in regard to the effect of your remedy for tapeworm. I beg leave to tell my experience: Seven years ago I discovered that I was afflicted with one of these monsters. At first it gid not interfare with my health or business, but after about a year I became very sick at intervals. My health began to fail me, and I became very thin and emacisted. I commenced doctoring, and to be brief, I have paid out large sums of money to a great many physicians. I lived at Uniontown, Rentucky, when I commenced with the physicians, every one of whom I tried in that and neighboring towns and cities, without any effect. I was told by many of them that the worm would kill me: that there was no hope, as it was virtually a question of time in my case for my death to ensue. I began to think they were right, and concluded to emilst in the service, thinking it just as well to be shot with a bullet as to die of a worm. I also had a hope that while in the service I might find some Doctor who would do some good. In this I was mixtaken, as I tried every one I came in contact with during three years services. I took every kind of medicine that could be thought of, all of which failed to remove the terrible enemy gnawing at my vitals. I finally moved to this city about a year ago, and was recommended to call and see you. At the time I came I must confest that I thought the job a hopeless one, but I am happy to say that I now rejoice that I came. The moreter was entirely removed from my system, after being under your treatment a few days. The worm was sixty-six feet and five inches long, and I am satisfied that I am perfectly well. I have gained my strength very fast during the past two months. I most heartily recommend your remedy to all those similarly afflicted.

FLOYD COUNTY, July 10, 1868. Naw ALBANT, June 28, 1868

Dn. W. M. WILCOL-Se: In accordance with your request, I give you, and through you, the public, the following thats in regard to the affliction of my nisce, Annie Lewis, aged 18 years, of tape worm: About twelve years ago the first symptoms of the presence in her system of the monster was discovered. She was always a small, pale and emeciated child, having very little to say. Every remedy the family could hear of was tried effectually, but failed to remove only portions of the worm. Three years she was under the treatment of eminent physicians of Louisville, who used every known remedy, and tried all sorts of experiments to dislodge the enemy, but without avail. A remedy prepared by the celebrated Dr. Jayne, of Philadelphia, was also tried, but it, too, failed to effect a cure. The effect of the worm upon her health caused her to become partially blind, and to suffer otherwise to a considerable extent for several years. All hopes of her recovery were given up until I heard of your remedy. It performed an effectral become partially account for several years. All hopes of her recovery were given up until I heard of your remedy. It performed an effectual cure in a short time, removing the entire worm, twenty-two feet five inches long. Since that time the patient has gained flesh very fast, now weighing eighty-four pounds against sixty-four previous to the removal of the monster. She is now in apparent good health, and is cheerful and lively, having fully recovered her sight. I can cheerfully recommend your remedy as safe and sure in such cases. Your, respectfully, and sure in such cases. Your, respectfully. NEW ALBANY, July 6, 1968.

Naw Albart, July 6, 1868.

Da. W. M. Wilcox—Swr: I tried your Worm Destroyer upon one of my children, aged 7 years, and found it to be all it is represented. The child had been very puny for some time, although it was a very hearty eater. I finally tried your Worm Destroyer, and, after administering two doesa, a large number of stomach worms were passed off, one of which was eigteen inches long. I can recommend it to all persons as a safe and reliable remedy for the removal of worms from children.

Cheap Advertising. There is a growing demand for cheap adver tising, and in order to accommodate this want we have concluded to insert under appropriat ments at TWENTY CENTS for three lines or less for each insertion, and FIVE CENTS for each additional line. This is a medium of advertising that offers rare inducements to merchants, traders, manufacturers and mechanic to build up a large trade. It will, also, be found an excellent medium to bring to the notice of the public all kinds of real property that is for sale, rent or lease. To everybody, in fact-to those who desire to buy anyarticle or species of personal property; if a situation of any kind is wanted by a man or woman; if you desire help or if servants want ituations; losses of all kinds; articles stolen; strays of every description—in fact, any adverthis cheap advertising system will be found bot valuable and economical. While it will cost b little, these advertisements will be widely read. As we offer a great inducement to advertisers in the cheap advertisement columns we hope the advantages of advertising will be tried by all who have any occasion for it.

A LIVELY LAW SUIT,-About the live-

liest law suit we have heard of recently, came off before Esquire Curtis on Saturday. A son of Peter Wilkins, "the detective," who figured in the Clem trial, bought a slate at Bowen, Stewart & Co.'s for seventy-five cents. Peter, while skyugling around detecting things, hap-pened to drop into the store of Todd, Carmichael & Williams, where he discov ered that a larger slate was being sold for the same money. He got mad about it, used a week—back to Bowen, Stewart & Co.'s, demanded that his money be refunded. Bowen, Stewart & Co., not caring about taking back damaged goods, refused, and the wrathful Wilkins brought suit against them for fraud, truggles for life, at Opera Hall next and claimed seventy-five cents damages. The trial came off before Esquire Curtis, Peter Wilkins appearing as attorney for the plaintiff and Mr. Bowen for the firm. Peter proved the purchase, the amount paid and the fact that Todd, Carmichael & Williams were selling slates at lower rates. Bowen, Stewart & Co. admitted pelieve in negro suffrage, was in the city | the sale, and their refusal to take the slate back, and asserted that they had sold the article at a price fixed upon by the book-sellers of the city. This they proved by and C, National Guards, will be given Merrill & Co., and by Todd, Carmichael & Williams themselves, who admitted that they had cut rates, and, in offering to sell cheaper, than B. THE WEATHER YESTERDAY, -The snow storm yesterday was the most extensive we have had this winter, and in its violence threatened, for a while, to give us a season of sleighing, such as has not been seen here for years. Much to the discomfort of pedestrians, however, a great deal of the snow melted as fast as it fell, and the streets, generally, were in a very unleasant condition. The street cars, after one or two abortive attempts to run on the Illinois street line, gave up in disgust, and did not try the other routes, which was a great incon-venience to residents of the suburbs. The day was a nasty, disagreeable one, fit only to be passed in-doors, but it was hardly light before divers and sundry enthusiastic persons, bound to have a sleigh-ride at any cost, had their cutters out, and were trying to have a good time in the teeth of the pelting snow. It didn't require a very long drive to satisfy them, though, and during the afternoon not a single sleigh was to be seen. At ten o'clock, when it was snowing yielently here, it was raining at Seymour. Trains on nearly all the roads were delayed newhat, and travel was quite light.

The attendance at the Academy of finale last night, was quite good. The performance opened with the Serious Family, which was very well played. Then followed the gymnastic feats of Madame Sanysah and her husband, which, for reckless daring and skillful emention, are unequalled. The husband, atthough not, perhaps, the strongest man in the world, does not lack a great deal of being such, and the Madame herself goes through the various performances with an ease and grace which is remarkable. still the entertainment is one better fitted by men then for momen, and is not cal-culated to add to either the entire of in-telligence of the community.

THE SCHOOLS OF INDIANAPOLIS.

CITY HIGH SCHOOL.

To the Editor of the Indianapolis Sentines Hisring completed my visits to the Ward Schools, the City High School came next in course.

A. C. Shortridge, who has long and efficiently filled the office of Superintendent of the City Schools, makes his headquarters in this building. His is a work cooperative with the City School Trustees. The employment of teachers, assignment of their duties, and the working of the whole machinery throughout the city, devolves mainly on him. His mind must comprehend it as a whole, and in its minuties. No one can successfully fill such a place unless "long experience has made him sage," unless his head and heart can fairly and fully enter into the work, both in the interest of the teacher and the taught. How well and satisfactorily our City Superintendent has shown that he peesesses these qualities, needs no testimony from me. His faithful and well known services for many years make up the true record in his favor. A young lady is his Secretary.

William A. Bell is the High School Principal, and he has the right ring for the place, is a good disciplinarian, and having secured the honors of a first class college, and being associated with teachers whose ability in every way is equal to the demands of the places they fill, the patrons of the City High School can feel the assurance that they can reach in it all the advantages of a first class college, and being associated with teachers whose ability in every way is equal to the demands of the places they fill, the patrons of the City High School can feel the assurance that they can reach in it all the advantages of a first class college, and being associated with teachers whose ability in every way is equal to the demands of the places. The source of fiberty are learned in the heart, and emulation in its commendable forms and our love of fiberty are learned in school. Here the fire of liberty is kindled, aspiration is awakened in the heart, and emulation in its commendable forms establishes that earnest pursuit of k son, Mary Kreutzer, Mary Nicholson, Sarah F. Reiley.

In lower story—A, intermediate—Fidelia Anderson, Jenny Neely.

In every part of this building, the teachers and classes gave evidence of careful and accurate training in the branches taught. I saw but little to criticise, and much to approve. I left with a satisfactory assurance that the Indiana-olis High School is in good hands.

I cannot speak, however, so approvingly of the building as of the teachers. The only means of ventilation is by the windows, and in most of the rooms there are windows only on one side. Air thus admitted drives unkindly on those next the wall, chilling them, while those on the opposite side of the room are too warm. The sir finding such an entrance and exit has no proper curvature around the room. It should find an escapement near the fleor sufficiently large te relieve the room both of impure air and surplus heat.

The basement of this building is par-

The basement of this building is particularly exposed to eritieism. The celling is low, and seating more than eighty students, you are sure, the moment you enter, the air is not healthful. I called upon the school to tell me how many of them had headache at school. All but about half a dozen held up their hands.

A few good ventilating flues would A few good ventilating flues would answer the wants of the entire building, answer the wants of the entire building, and possibly preserve health beyond any calculation we can make. The world has been slow in studying ventilation, but school and hospital architects especially have of late rendered great service to the present generation in this improvement. If I did not consider this an important subject, I would not have dwelt upon it.

ment. If I did not consider this an important subject, I would not have dwelt upon it.

There are two personages whom I meet occasionally on their rounds, visiting the ward schools in regular order. One is George B. Loomis.

I did not ask him if he was a grandson of Orpheu. I suppose of course, he claims some relationship. He steps into the schools to sublime their thoughts, and teach them how to make harmony of discord. I think his visits are everywhere agreeable. The other personage is Anna Griggs, who drills the classes in the several schools in gymnastics. When I was a boy we practiced the art by sitting on a rg i bench without any back and too high for our feet to touch the floor, and we would improve the circulation by swinging our bare feet back and forward in free air. That day has passed and D. Dio Lewis has perfected an art that has relieved the tedium of many a school room. Annie Griggs has successfully trained the classes in the several wards, giving them, in successions, daily lessons. Some of the Primary grades needed a little more time to bear "review," but they did the best they could, and the critic should deal gently with their imperfections. pletely overwhelmed by the magnitude tions. GENERAL REMARKS. It is hardly to be supposed that I found these schools all equally nest, well taught, or well governed. We are not all gifted alike, and some have difficulties to overcome that others have not. It takes much self-culture to be a first rate teacher. We must entire the countries of the countries much self-culture to be a first rate teacher. We must cultivate the countenance for one thing. Blue or discouraging looks are apt to be eatehing, and induce bad temper. I have hed a little experience under this head, and have seen its effects in others. I was delighted to find that the teachers generally, in Indianapolis, had carefully studied this subject according to Matt. vi.; 16-18. I was touched, one morning, with the dependent, simple petition to the Throne of Grace by a young lady, on the opening of her school; "Ask and ye shall receive. Seek and ye shall find."

There is a deep moral power that I fear we are too forgetful of in our daily thanksgiving, going out with these children into the world, which will be found no less than that wielded in our more costly monuments of Art which display dren into the world, which will be found no less than that wielded in our more costly monuments of Art which display more costly spires and minarets. The work performed on the mind between five and ten years, is the great work of the age. First, the mother—next, the teacher.

It was rare to find a teacher but that had studied the art of making herself pleasant to her school. I heard but one approximation to scodding. But two rooms not well governed, and the evidence may have been accidental. Upon the whole Indiadapolis has good teachers, good schools, and, if they behave at home as they do at school, a great many good children. Young America and his sister both deserve a great deal of attention and regard. They need patience, firmness and earnestness. I can not see but that they are quite as good as when I was a boy. Indeed, since the Sabbath School has come to our aid, I sometimes think this generation is a decided improvement on the last. The future is not without bright hopes. May God preserve and blest the teachers and pupils of the Common Schools and of the Sabbath Schools.

It is due that I should say that, in my Sublath Schools.

It is due that I should say that, in my criticisms upon the school buildings or their surroundings, I have aimed only to make such suggestions as the authorities can readily remedy at light expense, and I feel myself warranted in making them from much observation and experience. I have not supposed, in any instance, that the teachers are chargeable with any of the inconveniences or discomforts to the inconveniences or discomforts to of the inconveniences or discomforts to which, in a few of the wards, they are subjected.
